

d&b SOUNDSCAPE REFERENCES

Soundscape was developed for two main purposes: to allow you to enhance your audience's experience, and to give you the freedom to create progressive artistic concepts for your events. Soundscape integrates object-based spatial audio, virtual acoustics, and expansive system design and customization options. A virtual toolbox that unlocks the creative, experiential, and technical depth of productions. Explore a world of incredible experiences powered by Soundscape's adaptability.

MJ The Musical London, UK

“The lack of big speakers causing sightline issues on the proscenium was a nice plus... With Soundscape you don't have that problem. For MJ the Musical, all the speakers are across the top of the proscenium arch. There is nothing on either side of the stage blocking sight lines.”

Gareth Owen, Sound Designer
MJ The Musical

“Classical music requires reverberant surfaces for the sound to bounce off. By using Soundscape we can create a virtual acoustic shell, effectively modelling an artificial ceiling and walls from which the sounds of the orchestra can be reflected. The result is a rich amplified sound that orchestras, conductors and audiences fall in love with.

Sydney Recital Hall Australia

“Our vision is to make City Recital Hall Sydney's home of live music. We have an amazing acoustic hall that is much admired in the classical world. We chose d&b audio-technik Soundscape so that we are seen as the best in the field for contemporary artists and to ensure our amplified shows achieve as much acclaim as our acoustic shows.

“ Even a spotless stereo mix is almost like a still image. It can't unexpectedly call for your attention from far away or right behind your head, jumping from one side to the other of your body, trespassing your idea of three-dimensional. d&b Soundscape brings a new, immense canvas that artists are able to fill by adapting their existing shows to sound like completely new experience.
